Allocation	Co-product allocation was applied for the brass scrap that is produced from the foundry process. Economic co-product allocation was applied based on the hierarchy presented for co-product allocation on the EN 15804:2012+A2:2019.
Flactricity used in module A2	The electricity used in module A3 accounts for more than 30 % of the total energy consumption in modules A1-A3. Therefore, the used energy sources for electricity production and climate change impact of the electricity mix are stated.  At Rauma production site the electricity is 100 % based on hydropower. GWP-GHG impact of the used electricity mix is 5,4 g CO <sub>2</sub> -eq/kWh.
Electricity used in module A3	At Olesno manufacturing facility the electricity is based on biomass and biogas 5,90 %, hydropower 1,72 %, wind 11,85 %, solar (PV) 0,45 %, coal 47,61 %, lignite 23,59 % and natural gas 8,88 %. GWP-GHG impact of the used electricity mix is 694,0 g CO2-eq/kWh.  At Kralovice manufacturing facility the electricity is based on coal 40,83 %, nuclear 42,06 %, natural gas 10,35 %, biomass 4,43 %. GWP-GHG impact of the used electricity mix is 850,0 g CO2-eq/kWh.

Modules explained

A1 Raw material supply	C1 De-construction
This module contains the supply of raw materials including brass, stainless steel, plastics, rubbers and other materials in smaller quantities.	This module is assumed to not cause environmental impacts as the de-construction of faucet product can be done with manual labour and does not require external energy sources.
A2 Transportation	C2 Transport
This module contains the transportation of raw materials and prefabricated components from suppliers to Oras Group's production facilities. Average transportation route covering all the relevant raw materials was developed as there is wide range of possible supply locations even for single raw materials and components. Transportation takes place by road and sea.	This module contains the transportation of product for waste processing to nearest waste processing facility.  Transportation is done by road and the distance is assumed to be 50 km.
A3 Manufacturing	C3 Waste processing
This module contains the relevant production processes for washbasin faucets. The most relevant processes are casting in foundry, production of plastic parts and chrome-plating of brass and plastic parts. Treatment of waste and wastewater are also included. The used electricity mix for manufacturing stage is stated on chapter "LCA Information".	This module contains the waste processing related to material recycling of brass. It is assumed that 90 % of the brass is headed for material recycling process, which include casting of brass into brass ingots.
A4 Transport	C4 Disposal
This module contains the transportation of the final product to warehouses from where further distribution takes place. Both truck and ferry transportation are included. Transportation distance is 486-1 074 km by road and 0-123 km by sea depending on the location of the warehouse. The scenario does not included transportation to construction site.	This module contains final disposal of materials that are not headed for material or energy recovery. Stainless steel, plastic components, rubber components, packaging materials of the final product and 10 % of brass are assumed to be headed for incineration without energy recovery. Other components in smaller quantities are assumed to be headed to landfill.
B7 Operational water use	D Benefits and loads beyond system boundary
This module contains the production, heating and wastewater treatment of tap water related to the use of washbasin faucet. The scenario for operational water use is described more precisely on chapter	This module contains the benefits related to material recycling of brass. Brass is recycled through casting process, and it is assumed to substitute virgin brass production from the market

Additional information

The scenario for module B7 "Operational water use" is based on Unified Water Label (UWL), which is a product label developed by European bathroom industry to demonstrate water and energy efficiency of bathroom products. The technical criteria of UWL correlates with existing European and National standards while establishing harmonised calculation criteria for bathroom products. The following parameters were applied when developing the scenario related to operational water use.

Parameter	Amount	Unit
Reference flow	1	l/min
Use cycles per day	7	use cycles/day
Length of use cycle	1	min
Use cycles per year	365	days
Cold water temperature	15	0C
Hot water temperature	38	0C
Heat coefficient of water	4,18	kJ/kgK
Density of water	0,981	kg/l
Length of the use stage	16	years

The annual water consumption according to the parameters stated above is 2 555 l. It is assumed that all of the water consumption for washbasin faucet is hot water. 66,94 kWh of energy is consumed annually for the heating of water. The scenario for operational water use covers 16 years which is the reference service life of washbasin faucets. The energy profile for heating of water is based on Eurostat statistics describing disaggregated final energy consumption in households used for water heating in year 2018. The geographical coverage of the data is Europe (EU27). The following values were applied when modelling the energy profile for heating of domestic water.

Source of energy	Amount	Unit
Solid fossil fuels and peat	1,21	%
Natural gas	32,89	%
Liquefied natural gas	2,48	%
Oil and petroleum products	9,15	%
Other kerosene	0,42	%
Gas oil and diesel oil	6,25	%
Renewables and biofuels	10,54	%
Solar thermal	4,03	%
Ambient heat (heat pumps)	1,06	%
Primary solid biofuels	5,34	%
Biogases	0,09	%
Electricity	16,23	%
District heat	10,31	%
Total	100,00	%

Operational water use scenario

The scenario for operational water use covers the water and energy consumption related to use of washbasin faucet by one person for 16 years according to the calculation parameters described in UWL methodology. The scenario presented in this EPD is an estimation of the potential environmental impacts related to the use stage of faucet product and the scenario aims to emphasize the significance of the use stage in relation to the products life cycle. In reality, the environmental impacts arising from the use stage of the product are very dependent on behavior of the user, nominal flow of the faucet product and energy sources used for heating of domestic water.

The use stage scenario is calculated based on flow rate of 1 l/min to enable further calculations of environmental impacts related to product specific flow rates. More information about the nominal flows of washbasin faucets can be found from Oras Group's website.

Differences versus previous versions

This is an updated version of the EPD for Oras Group's Washbasin faucets. The following changes have been made in relation to the previous version of the EPD:

- LCIA profile for the product group is determined according to the "worst-case scenario" product, which is determined by the share of brass from net weight of product (m-%). LCIA profile was determined as an average of included products for the previous version. This change enables wider variety of products to be included within the product group.
- Use stage scenario is modified so that the flow rate used for calculating the water consumption in the use stage is 1 l/min. Nominal flow of 6 l/min was used in the previous version of the EPD. The change was made due to the fact that the nominal flow of 1 l/min is easier to adapt for the different nominal flows within the Washbasin faucets product group.
- It is assumed that 100 % of the water used in the use scenario is heated water, whereas it was assumed that 40 % of the water is heated in the previous version of the EPD.
